

The Daily Courant.

Friday, December 3. 1714.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Dec. 7.

Warsaw, November 21.

THE King has given Audience to the Deputies of divers Palatinates, who come to demand a Discontinuation of the Contributions which are exacted from them. The Pope's Nuncio, to whom his Majesty has made a Present valued at 10000 Crowns, sollicite strongly at Court that the Lands of the Clergy may be exempted from Winter-Quarters. There are 13 Field-Pieces brought from Daptauick, which the King having viewed, ordered to be placed in the Arsenal. The Nobility continue to separate in the Palatinates of Cracow, Lublin, and others; and the King having ordered divers Saxon Regiments to draw out of the Kingdom, 'tis hoped that all Disturbances will be soon at an end. General Janus has named Commissaries to adjust the Route for those Troops, and to furnish Provisions and Forrage to them. 'Tis said General Canitz will command those Troops who are to have an Eye upon the Motions of the Swedes in Pomerania. His Majesty having resolved to remain here this Winter, many Diversions are preparing against the Carnival; and Comedians and masquing Habits are brought from Dresden. The Prince of Saxe Weissenfels, Major General, is departed to go to command the Saxon Troops in Lithuania in the Room of Major-General Milkau. The 25000 Russians who encamped upon the Frontiers of Lithuania, have begun to build themselves Barracks, in order to remain there all the Winter. Some Polanders set upon and killed the Post who went hence the 7th Instant for Saxony, and took away his Letters, among which were some from the Court of great Importance. The King has sent Adjutant-General de la Marr to endeavour to seize the Criminals.

Hamburg, Dec. 4. His Danish Majesty has published a new Order in Holstein, demanding two Bushels of Rye and four Bushels of Oats out of every Load, as a Contribution, which all the Farmers are obliged to furnish immediately; besides which his Commissaries continue to buy up new and old Corn, which they send to Rendsburg to fill the Magazines that are there, and at the same time erect others at the Towns that stand the most conveniently for the Army. We hear that the Swedish General Daldorffen having met the Envoy Bassewick upon the Road, told him what had passed at Straelsund, but made him believe that the King approved of his Conduct, and that he might safely return thither; and 'tis said that he thereupon changed his purpose of going to Vienna, and is turned back with Intention to wait upon the King. Upon Advice of the Arrival of the Administrator of Holstein, the King of Sweden went out on Horseback to meet him, and the next Day made him a Visit at his House. Count Welling has so well represented his Case to the King, that the Councillor of the Regency Neubauer is cited to appear upon the penalty of forfeiting his Estate. That Count in the Absence of the Officers of the King's Chancery was entrusted with the drawing up the Dispatches for Sweden, wherein he spent a whole Night, and sent them away by General Lieven. His Swedish Majesty has been at the Isle of Rugen accompanied by all the Generals of his Army, and found at his return Baron Gortz, Privy Councillor of Holstein, who came Post from Vienna. The two Dukes of Mecklenburg are obliged ('tis said) to advance certain Sums of Money to the King of Sweden, and to furnish his Magazines with the Corn that is wanting to subsist his Army. We hear from Berlin, that Baron Frisen-dorf, the King of Sweden's Minister, has been in Conference with the Ministers of the Court of Prussia; that Patents are actually sealing for raising divers new Prussian Regiments; and that M. Bassewick is gone for Straelsund, after having received from his Prussian Majesty a Letter of Recommendation. We hear from Peteraburg, that in a violent Tempest which happened lately upon the Coasts of Finland, six Russian Gallies were cast away, and all the Men lost; and four others having struck upon Sands and Rocks, are very much damaged. Letters from Warsaw of the 23d of November bring Advice, that the Palatine of Masovia is returned thither from his late Embassy to the Ottoman Court, and was very graciously received by the King of Poland. 'Tis said he will not give an Account of his Embassy but to the Senate, which will Assemble two Months hence, or to the Grand Diet of the Kingdom. Upon the pressing Instances of the Senators and divers Deputies of the Palatinates, his Majesty has caused 13 Regiments of his Saxon Troops to march out of the Kingdom; and his Majesty himself is expected at the Fair of Leipzick about New-Year's Tide.

Hague, Dec. 7. 'Tis said the Negotiation upon the Barrier sticks at the Article of Dendermond, which the States demand; and although the Emperour at present refuses it, 'tis thought he will at last give up. For the rest, seeing the Imperial Court will not listen to the extension of Limits which this States demands in Flanders, because it would take from the Emperour a good space of fertile Land on that Side, we begin to incline to desist from that Pretention, notwithstanding the Representations and Protestations made by the Province of Zealand against receding from it; the States seeming to prefer to it the rest of the Upper Quarter of Guelderland, by reason of the great Convenience of having thereby a Communication with Maestricht, which is an important Key to this State. With this View we insist upon having at least Venlo and Stevenswaert: And the most judicious are of Opinion, that after the great Reduction which the States have made of their Troops, they ought not to grasp at too much Country, seeing they are not in a Condition to send 10000 Men into the Field, without exposing some of their Fortresses; and considering that the Barrier Treaty will hardly be concluded by the time that is peremptorily fixed for the Admission of the Imperial Troops into the Spanish Netherlands, which Troops are actually in March to take Possession of them at that fixed time. The Danish Minister here has printed the Treaty which the Administrator of Holstein made with Count Steinboeck for the Evacuation of Tonin-guen, the Original whereof was intercepted by the Danes. On the other hand, the Holstein Minister has delivered to the States and distributed a Print, by which he pretends to prove that the Danish Court has at all times endeavoured the Ruin of the Ducal House of Gottorp. The Plenipotentiaries of Spain having heard that it is apprehended that after the Term of Suspension of Arms is expired, the Spaniards will make some Enterprize upon Portugal, have assured the Ambassadors of that Crown of the contrary, and that his Catholick Majesty is ready to prolong that Cessation for some Months, during which time 'tis hoped the Peace may be concluded.

London, December 3.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Flanders.

From the Brussels Gazette, dated Dec. 7.

Brussels, Dec. 7. According to the last Advices from Antwerp, Count Comingleck sent a Courier to Germany last Saturday. General Cadogan arrived here on Wednesday Night, and 'tis said his Excellency Count Comingleck will also make a Tour thither, while the State's Deputies at the same same time go to the Hague, and wait the return of the Courier that is dispatched to the Imperial Court.
